OUR DIRECTORY.

In presenting this new directory for San Diego city and county we note that the body of the book contains fifty more pages than the old directory, and there are five more names to each page, making in all over 2,500 more names than there were in the old, indicating a material increase in the population of our city. During the year just closed many new and handsome buildings have been erected; and the indications for the coming year are still brighter both for an increase in population and building operations.

We have endeavored to make this the most perfect directory that has ever been issued in the city. Our next issue will appear about the first of the year 1896, and our constant aim will be to make each succeeding issue better than the former. From time to time we will add new features to the book as occasion seems to warrant, believing that San Diego business men will appreciate our efforts, and encourage a worthy home enterprise.

PART TWO.

NATIONAL CITY DIRECTORY.

National City, the terminus of the Southern California railroad, adjoins San Diego on the south, and among its inhabitants are many of the county's most enterprising citizens. It is the location of the headquarters of the San Diego Land and Town Company, and the National City and Otay railroad.

STREET GUIDE.

Commencing at the San Diego city limits, the streets running east and west are First, Second, Third, etc., to the city limits between National City and Chula Vista.

Taking National avenue as a base line, the streets running north and south are called avenues. Those on the west of National avenue are First avenue, Second avenue, etc., to the Bay front. Those on the east of National avenue are A avenue, B avenue, etc., as far as the streets are laid out.

ESCONDIDO.

The largest interior town in San Diego county and one of the most prosperous. It is located at the end of the Escondido branch of the Southern California railroad, 21 miles east of Oceanside; 35 miles north of San Diego, but 61 miles distant by rail. The development of water for irrigation purposes, which is now going on, has put new life in the entire valley, and much building and improving is going on. Almost all branches of business, except the saloon, are represented, and church and school privileges are the best. Escondido has a fine hotel and many substantial buildings.

CITY OFFICERS.

Board of Trustees—Sig Steiner, mayor; J. H. Anderson, J. A. Dyer, W. H. Baldridge, J. D. Kerr. Clerk, I. N. Nightingale; Treasurer, E. F. Ward; Marshal, B. McFadden.

School Trustees—J. N. Turrentine, G. V. Thomas, Daniel Kenniston.

FALLBROOK,

Is a growing agricultural and horticultural center of a fine belt of country lying between the Temecula and San Luis Rey rivers. It is 20 miles north of Oceanside, 60 miles from San Diego and 122 miles from Los Angeles. Fallbrook is located in the frostless citrus belt of San Diego county, 10 to 20 miles from the ocean, free from heavy winds. Is a very picturesque and healthful location.
